Recommendations letter of Amos Mabena-920819 5845 086
To whom it may concern

Sir/madam

Amos did his training with the company in 2015 in a gilt unit (NPD), where his main activities was the gilt system, artificial insemination and taking care of the pregnant gilts. He also performed in the farrowing house where his main activities were to monitor sows during farrowing, piglet care, processing and feeding sows during lactation followed by the management of the finisher herds.

His technological proficiency was assessed when production targets was entailed to him and manage to achieve these targets. He was assessed on animal handling, hygiene, record keeping, feeding and maintaining the health status of the herd. He was introduced to the vaccination program and treatment protocols and proved to understand it in detail. He was exposed to heat detection and to observe different signs of heat. He was also good with backfat measurement and monitoring of gilts prior to post service.

Amos career started to flourish when he was given an opportunity upon completion of his training as a pen worker where he was evaluated with the skills acquired during his training. He got more matured and discipline by conducting himself professional in his work. The quality of his work improved with time where he developed as pig technician. He carries out responsibilities given to him with satisfactory and that was proven beyond doubt when he was appointed junior supervisor in 2020.

Amos attitude, communication skill and ability to work as team member are very good. He is a fast learner and asks questions.

The information contained above is a true reflection of his experience.

Yours truly

Sam Sereit-unit manager (082 6040 194)
